History - What Is a 6mR -class Yacht?

6mR -classes history begins in the early 1900 when the first so called R -rule was formulated. The rule has been changed several times over the years, for example in 1919. In Finland, during years 1922-1933 there were 29 new yachts built according to this rule. As new construction materials were introduced, even glassfiber was used to build 6mR -yachts. This brought the need to divide yachts to two classes, modern and classic. Classic 6mR -yachts are built before year 1965.

Antineas History

She was designed by one of Finland's greatest yacht designer Einar Olofsson. She was built by Sanfrid Hongell, in his own shipyard in Rajasaari, Helsinki. She was ready to be launched in year 1928. Sanfrid Hongell had two sons Göran and Nils-Erik, to whom he gave the yacht. They sailed with her successfully until the end of 2nd World War, when she was sold.

In the end of the 80's brothers Mikael and Robert Renlund decided to buy a classic 6mR -yacht. They had several options to choose from, but when they found Antinea from Sweden, they had found what they were looking for. She needed a complete renovation and restoration, which took seven years. In 1998 she was finally back in her original shape and ready to conquer the seas.

Antinea has participated to Finnish ranking for three years, and also competition as WC 1999 in Hanko.

6mR -class Today

6mR -class is one of the most active keel boat classes in Finland. The number of active crews has been rising and old yachts have been renovated to competition shape. In Finland the standard in the class is very high. Victories for Finnish yachts in WC-, EC- and NC -competitions is a proof of this. Summer 2002 is a special year for 6mR -class. The last time 6mR -yachts competed in olympics was 50 years ago, 1952 in Helsinki.
